EXAMINER'S ACTION

Art Unit: 1812

1. A telephone call was made to Thomas Zindrick on 9-24-96 and 9-30-96 to request an oral election to the above restriction requirement, but did not result in an election being made.

Applicants have indicated that they are not able to elect by telephone at this time because of the uncertainty of which group to choose. This is because one of their other applications has gone abandoned and they are trying to revive. In that application claims to the protein were being examined. The outcome of whether this application will be revived will determine which group is elected herein. Base on the above, a written restriction is being issued in the interest of time.

2. Restriction to one of the following inventions is required under 35 U.S.C. 121:

- I. Claims 1-11, drawn to a TNF inhibitor, classified in class 530, subclass 350.
- II. Claims 12-21, drawn to a recombinant method of making a TNF inhibitor and the gene that encodes such, classified in classes 435 and 536, subclass 69.1 and 23.5 respectively

The inventions are distinct, each from the other because:

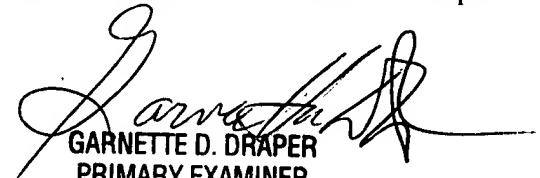

Inventions of Group I and Group II are related as process of making and product made. The inventions are distinct if either or both of the following can be shown: (1) that the process as claimed can be used to make other and materially different product or (2) that the product as claimed can be made by another and materially different process (MPEP § 806.05(f)). In the instant case the protein can be prepared by a materially different process such as by isolation from nature using various isolation/purification/chromatographic procedures; or the protein can be prepared by chemical synthesis. Furthermore, the products of these two group (e.g. the protein and the DNA) are physically, functionally and patentably distinct, and if determined to be patentable they would be patentably distinct. The DNA can also be used other than to make the protein of Group I such as it's use as a probe or in gene therapy.

Because these inventions are distinct for the reasons given above and have acquired a separate status in the art as shown by their different classification, which are not co-extensive, thus restriction for examination purposes as indicated is proper.

Art Unit:

Applicant is advised that the response to this requirement to be complete must include an election of the invention to be examined even though the requirement be traversed (37 CFR 1.143).
